

Euroméditerranée Skyscraper

MARCH 24, 2010

Finalist – 2010 Skyscraper Competition

Stéphanie Dumiak, Baptiste Franceschi, Anthony Frutoso, Caroline Mangin
France

The city of Marseille is one France's principal urban hubs that attract thousands of new residents each year. It has been designated World Cultural Capital for 2013 and many new urban developments are underway. The "Euroméditerranée" project is one of the most important ones and aims to give a new maritime façade to the north.

The idea behind this project is to create a vertical village that integrates to the tens of villages that configure the city. Each village has its own character and function. This project will have housing, offices, commerce, and recreational areas; gardens and parks will be incorporated as public terraces between the different programs and will serve as meeting places for the community.

17 Belluce street- Plug-In

0180

0180

Advertise here

NEWSLETTER

Name: Email:

Submit

JOIN US

Facebook

RSS Feed

Twitter

LATEST ENTRIES

Horizontal Skyscraper Above Existing City Block

French Centre Pompidou-Metz Almost Complete

MTV Awards Stage / Laboratory for Visionary Architecture – LAVA

Kenyo Sejima and Ryue Nishizawa – 2010 Laureates of the Pritzker Architecture Prize

UK Pavilion by Heatherwick Studio for the 2010 Shanghai World Expo

ZEROprize for Re-Skinning awards – University of Technology Tower in Sydney

Eskook – Green Kitchen of the Future

International System Skyscraper

Maldives Skyscraper – Floating States

Green Ribbon Skyscraper in Paris

ARCHIVES

April 2010

March 2010

February 2010

January 2010

December 2009

November 2009